

Your row holds two numbers. That is not an answer.

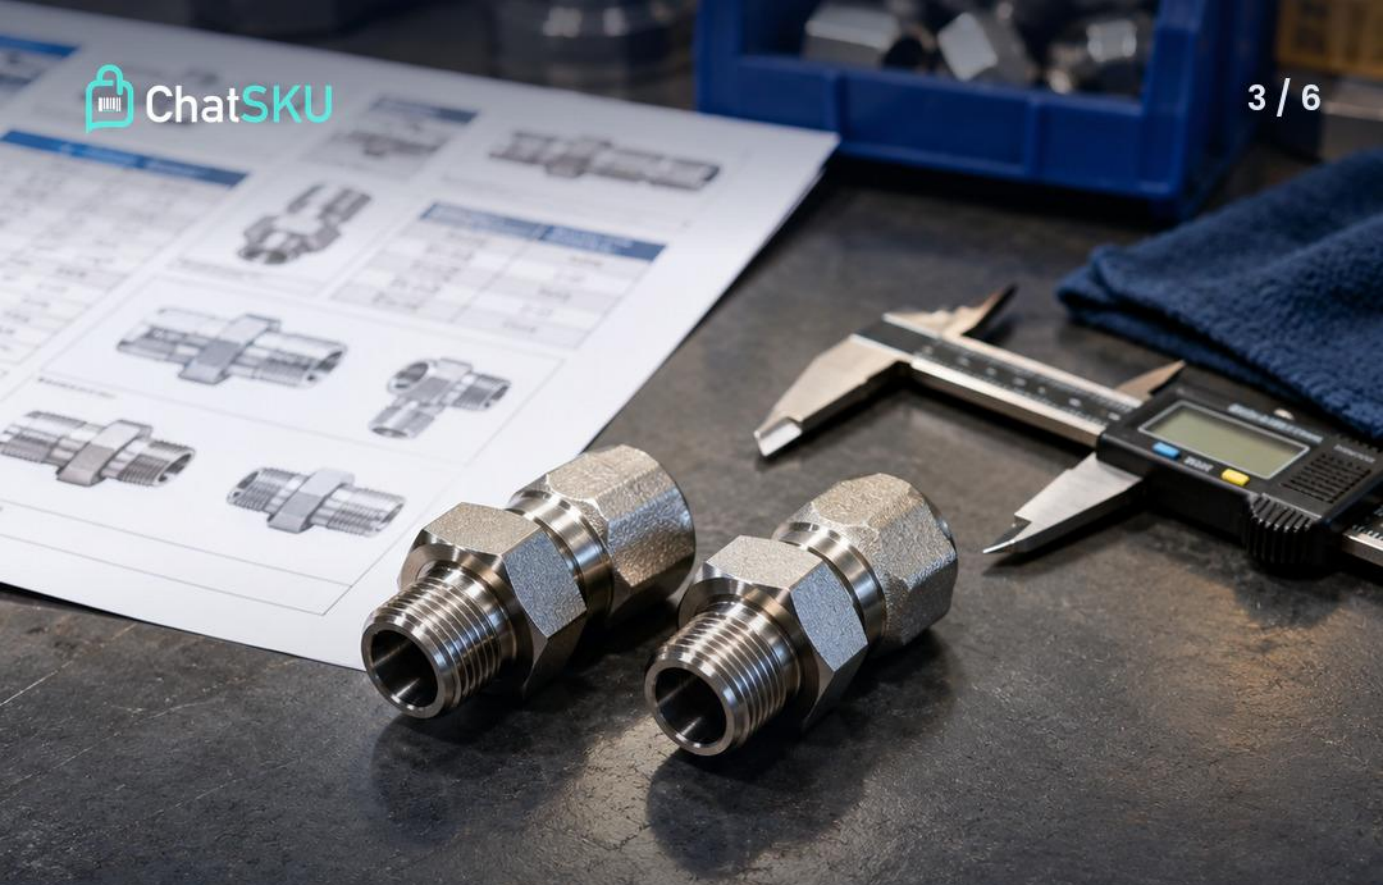

A buyer needs a decision, not a lookup.

A buyer holds another maker's number.

Which reply helps?

Your table says one bare number. Or it says more.

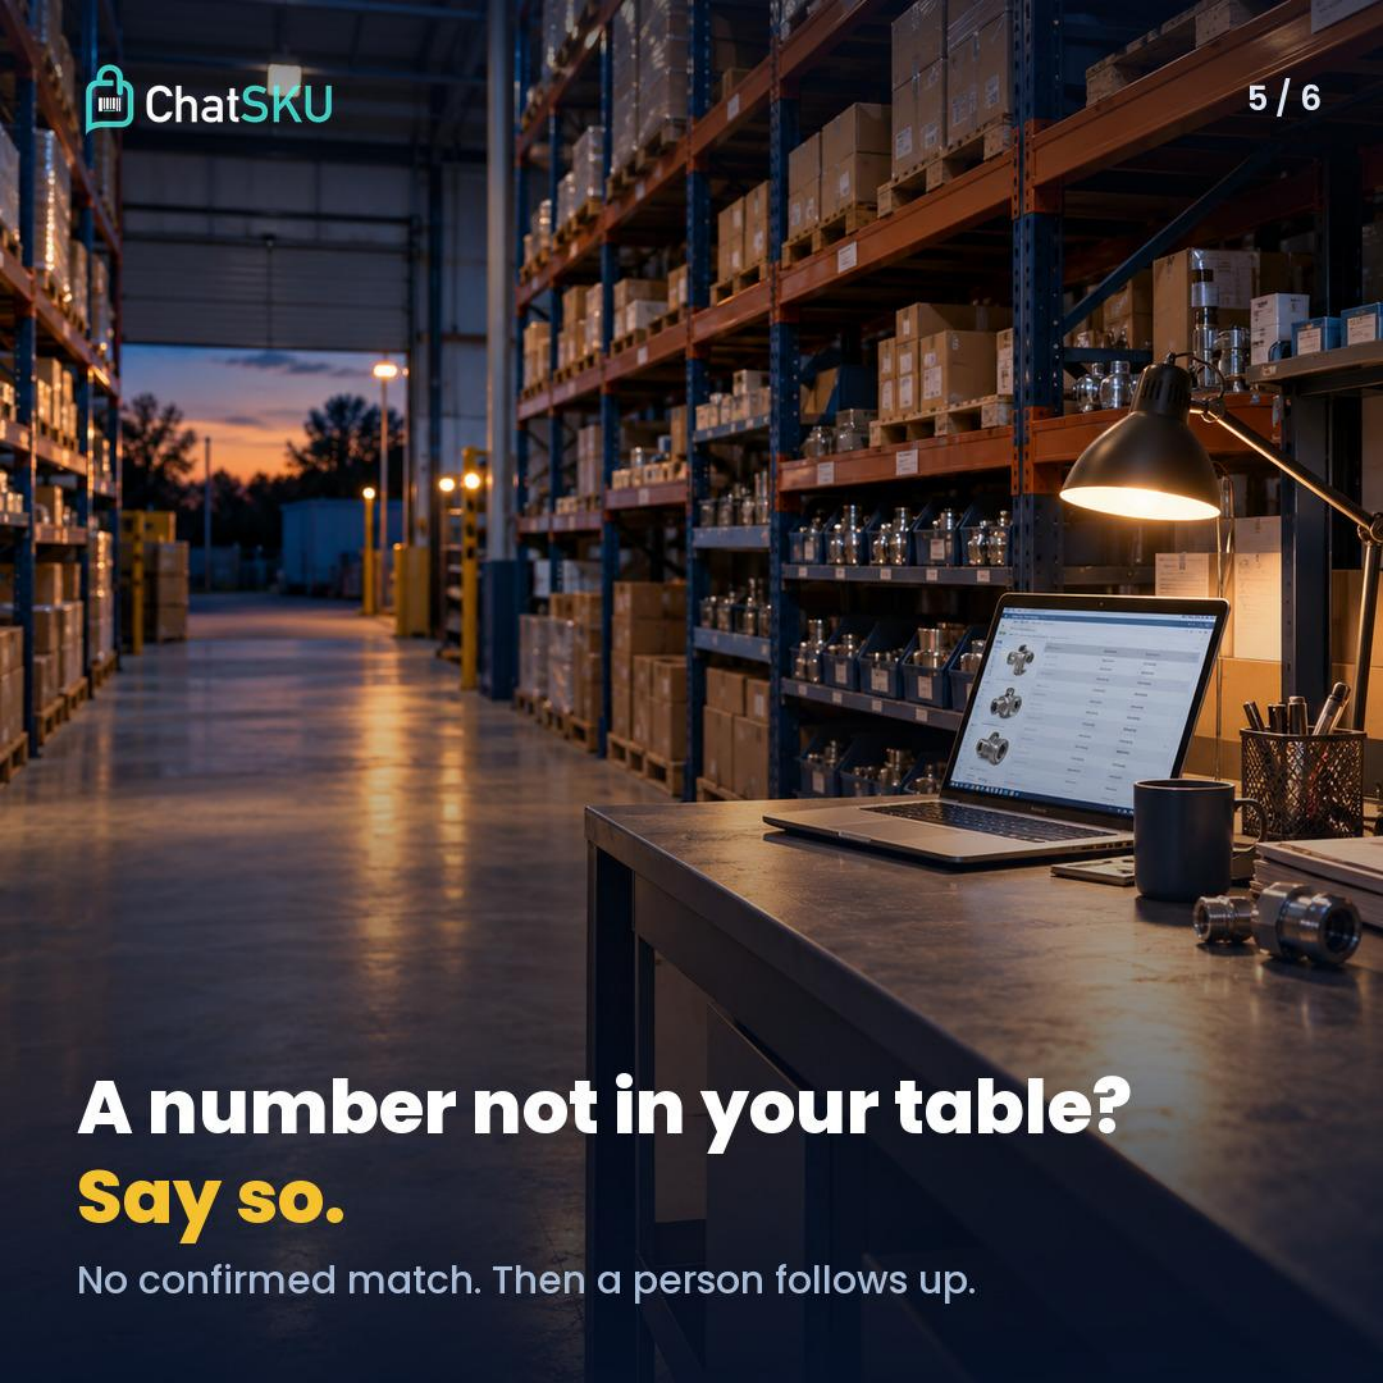

Two numbers in a row.
Six fields missing.

Fit, differences, and stock never get answered.

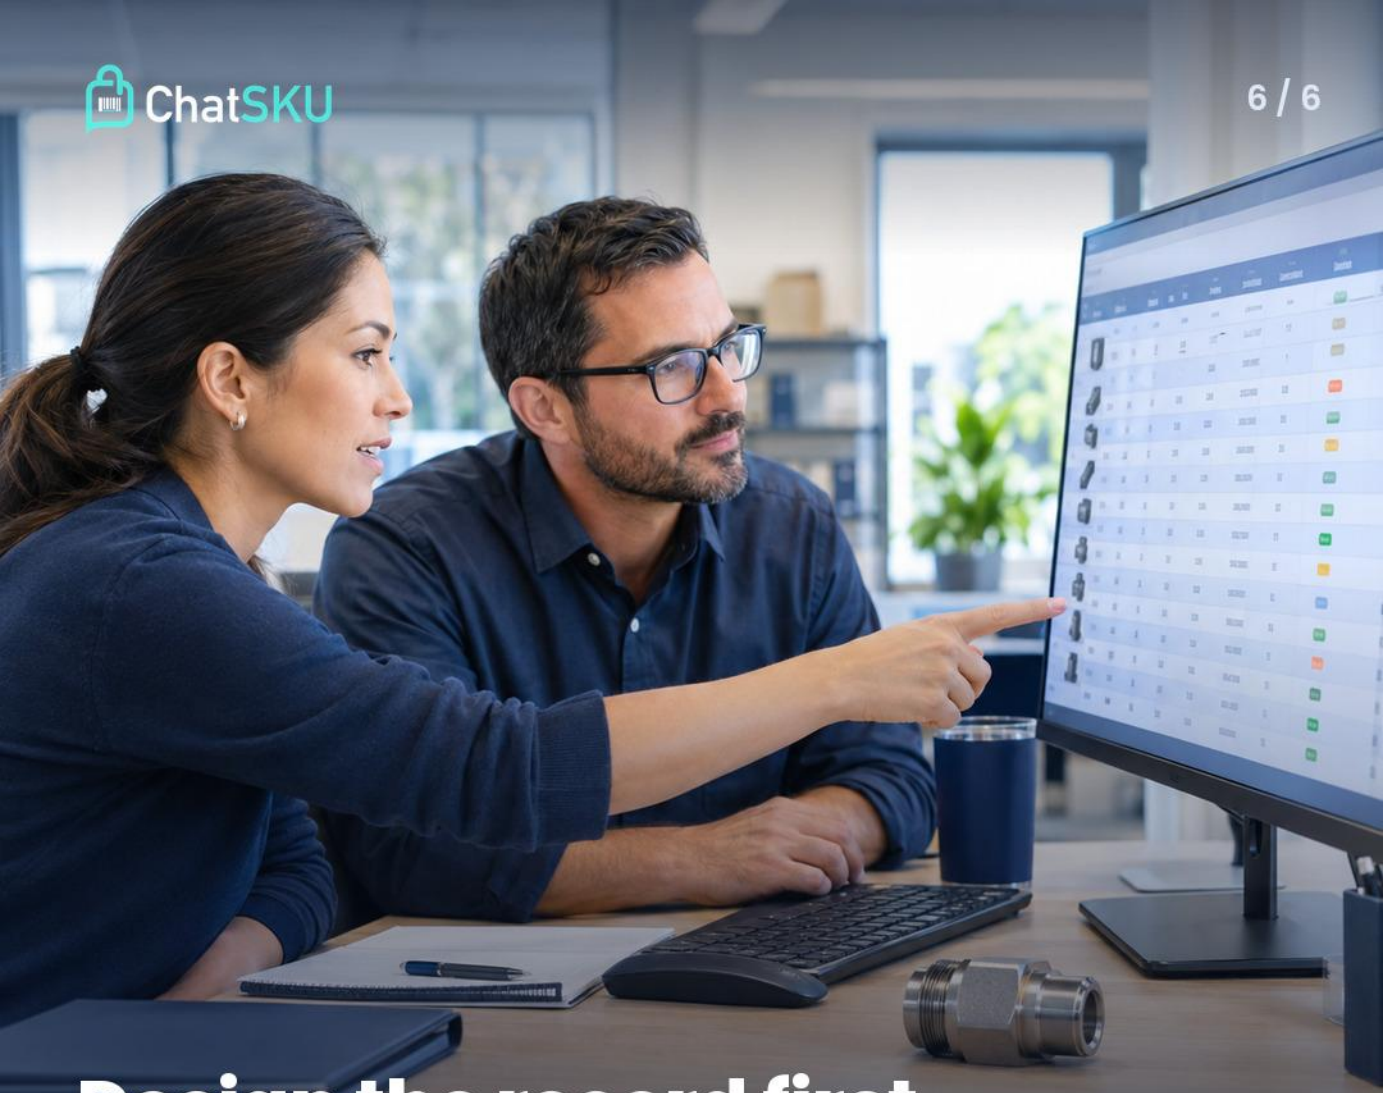

One row, one answer.
Six fields on every record.

Match type, what differs, direction, last verified, stock, next step.

A number not in your table?
Say so.

No confirmed match. Then a person follows up.

Design the record first.
Then decide who delivers it.

Give it an owner, a review trigger, and a no-match answer.
